BACKGROUND

At the University of Hertfordshire, Maesha volunteered at an 'Advice Clinic', offering legal aid advice to people in need, alongside completing her Master's degree.

In pursuit of her passion for the legal system, Maesha offered Tenancy Deposit Scheme legal advice, helping her peers to understand their contracts and to protect tenants and landlords alike.

Maesha additionally took part in 'Advocacy', including mock court trials, which allowed her to develop experience and skill in drafting statements, arguing a defence, and consulting with clients (in a controlled environment) on an extra-curricular basis.

Maesha is proficient in Microsoft Office, Adobe Acrobat, and scanning and printing software.

Maesha is passionate about human rights and often participates in demonstrations for social reform. She spends a lot of her spare time reading and unwinding in the garden, tending to her plants.
